LEWIS & Co.

If a man's dinner is right, and he rises from the table conscious that his wife has used the same judgment as to price that she did in the selection of the articles disposed of there can be no indigestion to follow. Our goods are of the kind which bring health, happiness and a fat purse. Table delicacies are a fad with us—they are bought because we know the average Honolulu is fond of good things for the stomach. Our prices are below the average and special inducements are offered to cash purchasers. Our latest importations include the best goods obtainable in the English markets. Copeland's English Peas; Cod's Roe, Mackerel in Mustard Sauce and Cambridge Sausages in tins are so well put up that it would be difficult to detect the difference between them and the same articles direct from the market. "Teyssonneau" is a long name to put before Pate but the combination makes the best tid bit ever placed before a gourmet. These are goods that anyone may eat without fear of indigestion following. They are put up in the best factories in Europe and come to us in elegant condition.

FLOWERS IN DECORATION.

Floral Arrangements For the Table—Bonquets For Dances and Receptions. Floral arrangements for the table are still flat and low of build, making no barrier to one's vision of the opposite neighbor. One of the prominent dinner givers of the early winter season ordered, in flat, oblong arrangement, a basket of these American Beauties in which the roses mustered 300 strong, the basket being 1 1/4 yards in length. The shallow basket edge was hidden by an outer row of the blossoms hanging their heads lightly against the snowy damask tablecloth. Six high standing vases held bunches of roses of the same species at regular intervals along the table. Very pretty was the basketful of roses.

The introduction of butterflies among floral decorations is a novel fashion. Large wooden boxes of these gauzy winged insects, in careful condition of preservation, are shown on demand, and when ordered are placed on very fine wires, which give the effect of a live insect just about to flutter, which is most decorative and attractive. The butterflies are imported from Paris, whence came the custom of employing them for additional decoration. A high vase filled with flowers, over which fluttered several butterflies, met with applause at the reception of a New York woman of fashion.

American Beauty leads among the roses. Other roses of fame and fashion are the Mme. Claude, of rare beauty, pink of color—such a pink—the Bride-maid's rose, with shading of pink cultivated to tone in and contrast with the Bride rose of spotless white, so fitly named and used for bridal bouquets. These interspersed with orchids are most beautiful for a bride to carry on her wedding day, while in shape, as a variety of build, the English shower bouquet may be used, being graceful and popular. As is known, this is a broad, flat bunch, spreading fanlike, the flowers falling one beneath the other in shower effect half way down the gown. These are, however, heavy to carry and must be held in the one position. Bouquets for dances, opera and debutante's receptions are varied in having ferns interspersed with the roses or not, according to fancy. They oftentimes are tied with many bows and ends of satin ribbon and vary in size from one to many dozens of blossoms.

The violet of the season is the Marie Louise, deep blue and double, while the Parma is accounted second in rank owing to its lighter coloring. For simple decoration the pale carnation has not a peer, says Vogue, authority for the foregoing.

Billy Mason and His House.
An Illinois member of congress had dined with Billy Mason in Chicago. They had talked of the desire of Mr. Mason to go to the senate, had admired the beautiful house in which he lived, and then, smoking an after dinner cigar, the two friends walked down town together. When they were some distance from the house, the congressman turned and looked back at the large and brilliantly lighted dwelling. "You have a beautiful home," said the congressman. "Yes," replied Mason, with a smile that was both proud and a sigh, "but I can hear that house drawing interest two squares away."—Argonaut.
